UVA Health's community hospitals are committed to giving back to the communities we serve.

Investments in strategic partnerships with nonprofit organizations that address identified health needs help expand the reach of UVA Health's mission outside the walls of our hospitals and ambulatory locations.

Our goal is to improve the health of individuals in our community by promoting health, healing, and treatment in response to identified community health needs.

Responding to the health needs of our communities especially to the most vulnerable among us is central to UVA Health's mission. We strongly believe in our role as a socially responsibility healthcare system, which involves partnering with nonprofit organizations to improve health outcomes across the Commonwealth of Virginia.

Identified community health needs vary across the communities in which UVA Community Health serves and include, but are not limited to: chronic disease, behavioral health/mental health and substance use disorder, obesity and wellness.

Guiding Principles

We invest in the health and well-being of our communities through supporting community-based programs that align with these guiding principles:

- Close fit with UVA Health's mission, vision and values
    - https://uvahealth.com/about/mission

- Positive impact to identified community health needs and/or social determinants of health

- Intentional focus on our communities' most vulnerable populations

UVA Health

Context

Investments align with community benefit strategy to maximize impact of charitable contributions

Clearly defined priorities will lead to measurable health outcomes for the communities we serve

Giving strategy will ensure charitable funding is made in high performing, sustainable partnerships that will contribute to healthier communities

Leveraging partnerships will allow us to share our philanthropic story and engage team members

UVA Health

Pre-plan: Know how you will demonstrate outcomes:

Organizations are expected to provide data demonstrating their positive impact on identified community health needs and/or social determinants of health.

1. Determine what success looks like:

- Number of individuals in target population receiving education or service
- Behavior change among participants (knowledge, skills, confidence change)
- Health outcome change among participants (biometric change)

2. Establish a baseline to demonstrate impact:

- Pre/Post Comparisons (evaluates the same group at different times)
- With/Without Comparison (evaluates two different groups)

3. Gather data:

- Quantitative (surveys, participation rates, biometric measurements)
- Qualitative (interviews, focus groups)

Keep it simple and realistic!

UVAHealth

Outcomes examples

- Number of vulnerable persons provided food access (with & without)
- Demonstration of positive neighborhood change (pre & post)
- Usage metrics for parks, trails or housing units in target neighborhoods

- Number of persons afforded access to care (with & without)
- Demonstration of behavior change (pre & post)
- Demonstration of biometric change in preventable risk factors

- Number of programs offered to students in target population
- Number of students successfully completing program
- Demonstration of knowledge, skills and abilities gained

UVA Health

Eligibility Criteria

1. Address a current documented community need

2. Include at least one of these community benefit objectives:

   •Increase access to healthcare services through programs that address transportation, medication assistance, and medical home connection programs

   •Promote healthy behaviors, awareness of health risk factors, access to resources focused on behavioral/mental health, substance use disorder, and chronic disease management and prevention

UVA Health

Partnership beyond grants
